LIFE LONG LEARNING WITH ILR

The Institute for Learning in Retirement was founded at Baldwin-Wallace College, now known as Baldwin Wallace University, in the winter of 1992 by a group of college staff and residents from surrounding communities who were motivated by the cause of Lifelong Learning and meaningful social engagement for seniors.

In the company of like-minded peers, members can enjoy the least expensive college-level aca-demical pursuits without concern for credits, grades, and prerequisites. In furtherance of its mission ILR offers unique educational, social, and cultural opportunities which emphasize collaborative leadership and active membership participation.

In this era of social distancing The ILR and BW together seek common ground in the pursuit of Lifelong Learning for our members and stakeholder's.

HELP DESK

Each question and concern are important to us. We realized the need for one central communications center for our members. The ILR Help Desk email is that central communications center. If you have any questions or concerns, send an email to:
